Consumer Notes:

This month marks the debut of Urban Vision, a new supplier for the anime market.

Their two releases (Bio Hunter and Gatchaman) are both quite strong, particularly the Gatchaman OVA series. This is the new version of the "G-Force" series currently running on the Cartoon Network. While the characters have been redesigned and the stories are new, they are still quite recognizable ... we expect this to do quite well. The special version of Ghost in the Shell, previously available only on a fairly expensive Laserdisc is now also shipping on VHS tape in both subtitled and dubbed flavors. The new El Hazard TV series appears this month from Pioneer in VHS as well as Laser. Speaking of laser, the rest of the current Slayers run (available on VHS for some time now) is also here. While the rumor is that USMC has secured the rights for the rest of the first series, there has yet to be an announcement on this. AD Vision has, however, announced that they have the Slayers movie as well as some other properties, so the rights will be split between two companies like Urusei Yatsura, Dominion and the Iczer series before it. Finally, if you enjoy adult product, check out this month's sequel to the Demon Beast Invasion series.

JEFF'S PICK(S) OF THE MONTH

This is a fairly easy pick: the El Hazard TV series is pretty cool.

A good second is, of course, the Gatchaman series now available from Urban Vision.
